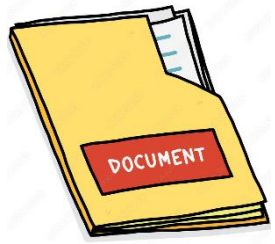
CETR


CETR stands for Care, Education and Treatment Review. A CETR is to try to prevent you from going into hospital or to plan your discharge if you are already in hospital. 	A CETR will help to get you the right support in the community. 	You can invite your family to your CETR. You/your family will need to give permission for a CETR to be held. 	Before the CETR you will be given a booklet to look through. Your Keyworker can help you with this and go over the questions with you.
During the CETR you will meet some new people. This is called “the panel” it will be made up of 3 people. 	The panel will ask you to share your views on your care, education, and treatment/medication. 	After speaking to the panel, they will speak to your professionals, such as your Keyworker, Social Worker, and Care-Coordinator. You won’t attend this part of the meeting. Keyworking Service	At the end of the meeting one of the panel will feed back their recommendations to you. They will write these up after the meeting and you will receive the report.
