WHY NOT WALK OR CYCLE?

Walking from Guildford train or bus station to your place of work could be the quickest, easiest option, depending on where you are based. There are a number of routes you could walk and we've included a few suggestions overleaf, along with way markers so you know exactly which way to go.

There are a number of ways to cycle to the Research Park from any direction, particularly if you're heading in from Guildford town centre. If you want to avoid cycling on the busy A3, you can use the two underpasses illustrated overleaf. If you're looking for a place to park your bike securely, try the Park's shared facilities which are pictured overleaf.

SURREY JOURNEY PLANNER

Stuck for finding the easiest route around Surrey?

Travel SMART has created a unique journey planner which can help you plan trips throughout the county.

The planner provides travel information in real time, which means it will let you know if there are delays on your bus or train route and tell you how long you'll need to wait for the next service. If there's heavy traffic on your regular drive home, it will help you make alternative plans. If you're new to cycling, you can plan the quickest, flattest route, while seasoned cyclists can choose hillier roads. The journey planner will even calculate how many calories you'll burn if you're planning to walk.
